“Again.”

Solon relaxed arms and tried to stall with a question. “Ma’am, why did you take the belt?” Maybe she would elaborate long enough for him to catch his breath.

“My mother was a kiln. AGAIN.”

Solon straightened his arms back out. He looked inward, deep, and found his spark. He brought it forward, through his heart. He breathed in... and then out and he pushed the spark to his fingertips and into the wooden talisman inscribed fehu. It burned green. The pitchfork wielded by the scarecrow five strides away ignited and the tone of a distant, unseen bell rang out. “So you were like me, then?”

Threya knew what Solon meant. Carrying on his family’s tradition, generations long. The weight of expectations.

The fire spread from the pitchfork to the scarecrow itself and began to singe the straw. Threya snapped, extinguishing it. The smoke rose from her fingers. “Not quite. My mother was the first in our family. She met her instructor completely by coincidence, not introduced like you and I. And she always told me that I could be anything I wanted...” Threya looked out at a ship in the distance sailing over the clouds. It ducked behind a rocky island.

“Anything except a kiln. Again.”

This caught the apprentice’s attention. “Why not? I mean, uh... did she disapprove?”

“She never found out. She died before I made the decision.” Threya wasn’t going to connect the dots for Solon. A kiln is supposed to solve problems, answer questions on their own, and Threya didn’t want to dig up old memories anyway. Didn’t matter anymore. But she could tell Solon’s focus needed a new target if they were going to stay on track today.

“My turn to ask questions, postulant.” Having been formally addressed, Solon stood a little taller. “What are the four duties of a kiln?”

Solon cringed, but tried to keep his composure. He could only remember the first two, he always got the others mixed up somehow. He figured he’d just start confidently and maybe muscle memory would kick in. Or something. “The first duty of a kiln is to protect the Undermind from those who would interrupt it. The second d-”

“Interrupt it from doing what?”

Solon looked at his instructor and blinked.

“Lost your train of thought did you?” Threya was making a point she hoped Solon would understand later, if not now. “The Undermind sifts through the souls that sink down to its roots, piecing together their memories to devise an answer to the ultimate question. And there are many who would do anything to get a glimpse at its progress. What’s the third duty?”

Solon’s eyes casted out the window to nothing in particular. “The... third... du-ty...”

Threya’s belt hummed and smoked and her reaction was immediate. Practiced to perfection. She pulled out a dagaz talisman and incinerated it. Gold flame spouted from her eyes and she saw them: two four-armed, man-shaped creatures were walking up the steps to the gymnasium. Crystal visors were set into their faces where their eyes would be, but Threya could tell they were looking directly at her student, through the wall somehow, and they didn’t seem to be here for a chat.

Solon hadn’t heard Threya take that tone with him since he blew a hole in the roof the day his parents arrived home early from their trip to Dardani. The consequences were dire.

ART GOES HERE

He fumbled a shaky hand into his belt and the doors to the room burst open. The afternoon sun cloaked two creatures in the doorway in shadow. Monsters, by Solon's measure. Solon breathed in... and his hand stopped shaking. He suddenly felt calmer, more focused. Warm. In fact, he could remember.

"The third duty is to solve the problems tasked to us by the Undermind."

Solon burned othalan. Threya burned laguz. The monsters drew steel.

"The fourth duty is to never waver in the heat of battle."

The soot of Solon's talisman swirled into a thread that reignited white hot and shot out to Threya, mixing with blue flames that already spiraled like a torrent around her. Theya's hands turned to smoke and two daggers shot out into the chestplates of the creatures. One exploded into a pyre. The other dropped to one knee, but the kiln was already behind it. She took the knife from its chest and re-positioned it through its throat. The blood evaporated to steam before it could dirty the floor.

This time, Solon burned dagaz. There were six, no, seven more of the creatures creeping up the steps. His instructor gave him a look and spoke again, her tone now just as calm as he felt.

"Good. Invaders are a problem with a simple solution."

Solon grabbed the pitchfork.

Kiln

Kilns are magical warriors and guardians of the Undermind. The omnipresent roots of the Undermind course with magical ether that you capture in your wooden talismans. Different woods burn with different powers, and you wield them all to turn your foes to ash.

Chaos is your home on the battlefield. Wherever the spark of opportunity presents itself, you arrive to stoke the flame. You can empower your allies to devastate your enemies. Should the need arise, however, you're well-equipped to put those who stand against you to the pyre yourself.

Basics

Starting Characteristics: You start with an Agility of 2 and a Reason of 2, and can choose one of the following arrays for your other characteristics scores:

- 2, -1, -1
- 1, 1, -1
- 1, 0, 0

Potency Characteristic: Reason
Starting Stamina at 1st Level: 21
Stamina Gained at 2nd and Higher Levels: 12

1st-Level Features

As a kiln, you gain the following features.

Cadre

Guardians of the Undermind organize themselves into different cadres. When you flare a talisman, how much of the ether turns to heat? How much turns to smoke? What color is your flame? Choose from the following:

Flameweaver: You weave through the battlefield from skirmish to skirmish like a thread in the wind.

Your power guides you to where you are needed most.

- You gain the Navigate skill

Hexblaze: You are an eruption, and the battlefield will burn to ash. The explosive force of your power shatters any hope of victory for your enemies.

- You gain the Endurance skill

Smokewight: You are at once everywhere and nowhere. You slip through the grasp of your foes and you cannot be pinned down.

- You gain the Escape Artist skill

Spark

The heat of battle burns the Undermind's ether trapped in your talismans, granting you a Heroic Resource called spark.

Spark In Combat

At the start of a combat encounter or some other stressful situation tracked in combat rounds (as determined by the Director), you gain spark equal to your Victories. At the start of each of your turns during combat, you gain 1d3 spark.

You gain 1 spark when you use the Stoke the Flame ability targeting an ally.

Additionally, you can gain more spark by kindling your own soul, offering it to the Undermind. Just the act can grant you a hotter flame and immense power, but beware: the Undermind may very well accept your offer. Whenever you roll to gain spark at the start of your turn, you can kindle (no action required). If you do, your roll gains the following additional effects:

- If the roll is a 1, the Undermind accepts your offering. You take psychic damage equal to 1d6 + your level, which can't be reduced in any way, and you are enkindled.
- If the roll is a 2, you are enkindled.
- If the roll is a 3, you are enkindled and you gain 1 spark.

While you are enkindled, your abilities granted by your Talisman Kit are empowered. You lose any remaining spark at the end of the encounter.

Spark Outside of Combat

Though you can't gain spark outside of combat, you can use your heroic abilities and effects that cost spark without spending it. Whenever you use an ability or effect that costs spark outside of combat, you can't use that same ability or effect again outside of combat again until you gain at least 1 Victory or finish a Respite.

If you use an ability that lets you spend unlimited spark on its effect, such as Speed of Sound, out of combat, you can use it as if you had spent an amount of spark on it equal to your Victories.

Kit

You can use and gain the benefits of a kit. See the Kits chapter of the Core Rules for more information.

Triggered Action: Stoke the Flame

As a kiln, you gain the following triggered action.

Stoke the Flame
As an ally attacks, you harness a bit of arcane energy to grant them a decisive advantage.
Magic, Ranged	Triggered
► Ranged 5	⊙ 1 ally
Trigger: The target makes an ability roll for a damage-dealing ability.
Effect: Apply one Stoke the Flame effect from your talisman kit granted by the Tinderbox feature.

Tinderbox

You collect and carve wood that courses with magical ether into talismans to use in battle. Whenever you select or change your kit, you additionally select a talisman kit (See Talisman Kits). Your talisman kit grants you a signature action, a maneuver, and your Stoke the Flame effects.

[ART GOES HERE]

Inner Flame

Once per round, you can spend 1 spark to use Stoke the Flame targeting yourself instead of an ally as a free triggered action. You can use Stoke the Flame this way even if you are dazed.

Inner Flame Cadre Benefit

When you use your Stoke the Flame ability targeting yourself, you gain the following benefit based on your cadre.

- Flameweaver: Before or after the triggering ability, you can shift a number of squares equal to your Agility score. This movement ends the grabbed and restrained conditions.
- Hexblaze: You gain one surge, which can be used on the triggering ability. Regain Stamina equal to the number of surges you use to increase the damage of the ability.
- Smokewight: You gain temporary Stamina equal to twice your Reason score.

Kiln Abilities

You use your talismans to bolster your allies or yourself depending on the ever-changing situation. But you're not only a mage; you're also well practiced at dealing in steel. You wield a range of abilities that combine your talents to eviscerate enemies.

Talisman Signature Ability

Your talisman kit from your Tinderbox feature grants you a signature ability. Signature abilities can be used at will.

Heroic Abilities

Your heroic abilities cover a variety of combat tactics that turn up the heat of battle and are all fueled by your spark.

Smoldering Sword (5 Spark)
Embers and ash rise and coalesce into a solid mass, honed to an edge and ready to command.
Magic, Ranged	Maneuver
▴ Ranged 5	◎ Special
Effect: You summon in an unoccupied space within distance an ethereal flaming sword of size 1S that can't be harmed. The sword lasts until the end of the encounter. Summoning a new smoldering sword dismisses the previous one. All creatures can move through the sword's space. When an enemy adjacent to the sword willingly moves to a space not adjacent to the sword without shifting, the enemy provokes an Opportunity Attack from you. When you or an ally uses a Melee Weapon ability, they can choose to use it from the sword's position. An ability performed in this way temporarily gains the Magic keyword and deals additional fire damage equal to your Reason score. At the start of your turn while the sword is summoned, as a free maneuver, you can move the sword up to your speed.
